Shop at Home

CHRISTMAS is on its way. From the North, Santa Claus will swoop down on the peaceful countryside of the world on the eve of December 24 and bring his message of cheer and hope to millions. With his coming, along with the bustle and worry of Christmas shopping—shops crowded with wives and husbands, daughters and sons, relatives and friends—all aimlessly groping to find useful and novel Christmas gifts for their selected lists.

Residents of Lacombe and district will do well to do their Christmas shopping this year at their local stores. The stores of Lacombe have laid in an exceptionally fine stock of Christmas goods—reasonably priced and of high quality. Try the Lacombe stores FIRST for your Christmas shopping. It will pay you dividends in the end, saving you the cost of going further afield.

Something Wrong Somewhere

THE recent destruction of several thousand carloads of oranges at Anaheim, California, again brings to the fore a problem which has been a sore-spot in our economic system for many years.

"There is simply too much fruit," a member of the California-Arizona Marketing Committee said, in explaining that most of the oranges were third grade or under, and that present prices of such oranges made it impossible to ship them to market, because the returns secured would not pay freight and marketing charges. . . . And this destruction took place even after the American Government had spent $300,000 in "diverting" fruit from the markets by purchasing it for use as stock feed.

In Canada, the Okanagan area has had surpluses of apples and other fruits from time to time, and the spectacle of apples rotting on the trees or in warehouses is not a new one.

"Simply too much fruit" will not be accepted as a legitimate excuse for the condition described as long as there are people in the drouth areas of both Canada and the United States to whom even small or third-grade apples or oranges would be as a gift from the gods. These people have claimed (and will continue to do so) that a plan could be worked out by the Government whereby such salvage fruit could be shipped to the drouth regions for free distribution to needy families. The advocates of such a scheme claim it would not endanger fruit-selling merchants in such areas because the average dry-belt farmer is without funds to purchase such "luxuries"—he has done without them for years—and will continue to do so until some plan such as that outlined is given a trial.

There seems to be a great deal of merit in such a scheme and it is at least worthy of Dominion Government investigation to determine its practicability.

The Triple Distance Record

(From the London Times)

IN creating a world's long-distance record the Royal Air Force has invented a new sort of hat-trick. Other formations of air-craft have made long flights; but if it has ever occurred to other organizers of record-breaking attempts to multiply their chances of success by three, none has ever ventured to put all his golden eggs in the same basket. The two Vickers Wellesley bombers which flew to Darwin were in effect surpassing the record which their companion had already made by landing in Koepang. The latter had flown non-stop about 6,000 miles from Egypt; its fellows went on a further 562 miles before they landed.

All three thus broke the existing record, one by about 300 miles, the other two by 856 miles. Their achievement may seem to have proved the futility of performing three times a feat which by this showing might have been left securely in the hands of any one of the three crews and air-craft. Yet this experiment in making assurance more than doubly sure has the merit of proving also that the success was no fluke. The Royal Air Force has taken its time in going out for a record with which it was last concerned in 1933, but its effort, now that it has come, has proved to be strong, certain and sweeping.

Through the Eyes of a Country Woman

By BRIDGET

Pain is no respecter of persons—it attacks the rich and the poor, the young and the old—it weaves its web and child. It is the supreme leveler of classes, for under pain's mantle all are equal, seeking only a cessation of their misery. Pain can teach us quite a lot if we are willing to learn.

Without ever having experienced pain, could we realize to the full the gift of perfect health? It supplies us with a yardstick by which we can measure the blessing of painless days and nights. How much pain a person will bear if actually, those with money will call to their aid the science of medicine, and enduring untold tortures, will change the shape of their nose, their eyes, or their ears; in fact have their whole face lifted in order to gain a little admiration.

Doctors and other research workers will allow themselves to be bitten by poisonous bugs, or be injected with virulent serums, in order to find, for the benefit of the masses of mankind, cures for those diseases and pains which they so heroically and valiantly inflict upon themselves. I remember, after the war, a young fellow who returned with the lower part of his leg amputated. The girl to whom he was engaged insisted on keeping her promise to marry him. The young man hesitated to tie her to one so fearfully disfigured as himself, so he offered himself to the plastic surgeons as a living basis of experiment. In three years he had undergone 27 operations, and had been given the hope that with another like number of operations he might have, once more, a complete face.

Many claim that human beings today are prone to more maladies than in years gone by; personally, I believe that we are prone to the same maladies; but now they are named and classified, and for some of them a cure has been found, and in any event, the present day human being can be sure of a prolongation of life, whereas in the past, he, or she, just died. While lying in bed this week, while every nerve centre in my body was competing in a "Lambeth Walk" Marathon, I was cogitating on the subject of pain, and wondering whether we are all so wise as we think we are about the alleviation thereof. Animals, if sick, creep into the brush, lie down to die. A human being clings to life with grim tenacity; this is what differentiates the human being from the animal, a soul that says "I will" and flaunting all laws, will hang on by a thread. Isn't it this very belief that everyone has a right to their lives to the very last minute, which is filling our lunatic asylums and prisons? I feel that maybe it is this belief that makes us balk at progressive legislation which seeks to assist incurables to attain rest, and to sterilize the mentally deficient.

We are more humane in our treatment of a fatally injured horse than we are in our treatment of a fatally injured person. During the running of the world's greatest steeplechase, the Grand National, the following has occurred more than once: Man and horse fall, at an obstacle; the horse is shot, and, with one shudder is out of its horrible pain. The man is picked up, loaded on to a stretcher, and lingers through a few dreadful days and horror-laden nights, and . . . dies. Of course, to destroy a human life is such a huge responsibility that persons do not like to subscribe to the idea of assisting an incurable into the beyond. Many members of the medical profession subscribe to the theory of euthanasia, and when one reads of the mercy killings in the papers, one can't help but wonder if there be not something to it all.

A woman of over fifty was recently put on trial for her life because she had killed her son, whom for thirty years she had had to nurse like a baby. She was taken ill, and feared she could no longer earn enough to keep them both, and, if she went on relief, the authorities would discover the plight of her son and put him into a lunatic asylum. So, she killed him, and was prepared to take the consequences. Now, should that woman be treated as a common criminal, and have to hear the sentence of death passed on her, even though she knew that it would probably not be carried out?

Perhaps, if we started on our lunacy problem first, we might get somewhere. No so long ago, the papers were full of that disgusting, and over-publicized contest, known as "The Stock Derby," in Toronto (The Good). Recently, these same papers have published the report of the examination of one of the contestants, which purported to show that the mentality of said contestant was equal to that of an eight-year-old child. Yet, in ten years, this woman had given birth to nine or ten children, which, added to those she already had, and supplemented by subsequent ones, brings her family to near the twenty mark. Isn't it deplorable that in this age of science, public opinion does not compel the authorities to take such action as will prevent the population of a new (or any other country), with the offspring of sub-normal parents? Large families can be a blessing and an incentive to a man's ambition. Vide Mr. Kennedy, the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, with a large family of nine boys and girls, to whom he gives the credit of his early rise to fame and fortune.

Families of sub-normal people can only be heading one way, to the care of the state; for, it is of this material that the population of our prisons and lunatic asylums are mainly made, as is indubitably proven by statistics. Shall we think it over?

task of solving the problem of families with low incomes, on a nonprofit basis."—Hon. C. A. Dunning.

"The present leaders of Europe will die, this gang soon won't be here, but the people will remain."—Theodore Dreiser.

"We shall never cure unemployment in Canada until private enterprise revives, and private enterprise will never revive until taxation is lessened."—Sir Edward Beatty. 1

Ford Offers Three Different Cars in New 1939 Styling

The Ford Motor Company this year presents two entirely new Ford V-8 cars and the new Mercury 8 for 1939. All three cars are individually styled and all three have hydraulic brakes. The Ford V-8 is available in three models. It has a full grille and unobtrusive louvers at the rear of the hood sides. Interiors are roomy and well appointed.

The Deluxe Ford V-8 has wholly new streamlines, a deep hood broken by louvers, a low radiator grille in bright metal and wide spaced headlights. Both Ford cars are powered with the new improved 85 horsepower engine.

The Mercury 8 is entirely new to the Ford-Lincoln line and fills a place between the deluxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is a big car with a 116-inch wheelbase. Its V-8 engine develops 85 horsepower. The front end design with low radiator grille reflects the Lincoln-Zephyr styling. There is a choice of four body types.

Blackfalds

(From Our Own Correspondent)

BLACKFALDS—Fred Bills held another dance at the Imperial Hall last Wednesday night, and if the crowd was not as large as the first occasion, it left more room in which to dance. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

A silver shover was held at the home of Mrs. F. McLennan last Saturday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. O. Landry, who was presented with a casserole, a pie dish, pie server and cups and saucers. During the afternoon a competition was held involving a story in which sewing terms had to be entered; this kept the ladies quiet, for once, and at the conclusion, Mrs. Chester Miller and Miss Nettie Roe tied for the first prize. Altogether a most enjoyable evening was spent and the bride fittingly thanked all present for the gifts which were offered suitably by Mrs. Chester Miller.

Miss Joan Warren came home over the week-end.

Sunday Services Held
Rev. W. E. Herbert held his usual monthly service at the English Church last Sunday, and likewise Rev. A. L. Carr held his weekly service at the United Church. Next Sunday the preacher is to be Rev. Dr. Powell, the superintendent of missions for the United Church.

Miss Annie Miller was up from Calgary last week for the funeral of Mr. Krause.

The mumps continue to go the rounds of the children in the school, new cases being reported every week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer had as visitors over the week-end the latter's sister and child, of Edmonton.

The village children are patronizing their old haunts on Patterson's slough for skating, while the folks out west have again prepared their rink on the Krause farm.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "God the Only Cause and Creator." One of the Scriptural quotations in the Lesson-Sermon is Nehemiah 9:6, "Thou, even thou, art Lord alone; thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that is therein, and thou preservest them all, and the host of heaven worshippeth thee." One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is "Infinite Mind creates and governs all, from the mental molecule to infinity. This divine Principle of all expresses Science and art throughout His creation, and the immortality of man and the universe. Creation is ever appearing, and must ever continue to appear from the nature of its inexhaustible source" (p. 507).

THE SCHOOL QUESTION

Editor, Lacombe Globe:
Dear Sir—In a recent issue of your paper, "Ratepayer" attacked Mr. MacMillan, M.L.A., for his defence of the Larger School Unit. The attack was evidently based upon the necessarily highly condensed report of the meeting of the school board. Mr. Ratepayer was not present, for his objections might have opened a most interesting discussion. As it was, not a question asked and full harm was done by the speaker's point of view seemed to prevail, notwithstanding the fact that rural trustees were in the audience. Who said 100 per cent opposition?

Regarding the petition, Mr. MacMillan specifically mentioned Lamerton M.D. To the best of the writer's knowledge, that petition did not make an appearance in our school district at all. Was it because we are recognized as overwhelmingly Social Credit supporters?

Previous even to the Great War the province of Saskatchewan had a thorough survey made of the rural system by one of its most outstanding experts in rural education on this continent. His report became a text book for those interested in educational problems. British Columbia later had a similar survey by a group of Canadian specialists. All these roundly condemned the small unit for its inefficiency, not only from an educational standpoint but from a social, cultural, health and economical standpoint as well.

Every association of individuals who have made a study of educational requirements regard the unit of the small school as only suitable for the period of its inception—the isolated clearings in the forest, with savage Indians lurking in the shadows. In older countries no such small divisions exist. The unit is the county or its equivalent; and in many of these the status of the teacher is that of a civil servant.

Conscientious and experienced rural teachers know that in hundreds of districts two-thirds of the hard-earned money of the taxpayers was wasted due to inexperienced teachers faced with the impossible task of nine or ten grades, no supervision, not even help from the so-called inspector, who was at best ignorant of the efforts, difficulties and achievements of the teacher when he was only required to spend one half-day each year in his classroom. At the worst he was a spy who had to make some kind of report to the Department. So unreliable had inspectors' reports become that the majority of School Board's ceased to take them seriously or to choose teachers on that basis.

Considerations such as these led the United Farm Women of Alberta to demand, 20 years ago, equality of educational opportunity as between the rural and the urban child. The educational plank of the first U.F.A. platform declared for the large unit, the Junior High School and the specialized training and supervision made possible through them. The U.F.W.A. have carried on the fight ever since; but it remained for Mr. Aberhart, who has battled bigger game than the Trustees' Association, to put it over.

In some districts, the mill rate will be lowered, but it is true that in some it will be raised. However, there are very few parents to whom the mill rate in their district represents the real cost of the child's education, training and health inspection. The large unit has inherent in its possibilities all the efficiency and the cultural opportunities for rural children which the age demands and which are found under a city administration. As for the teacher under the new set-up—well, the writer sincerely regrets the fact of arriving in the world, and in Alberta, three decades too soon!

And further, Mr. Ratepayer, won't you please lend your aid also, in order to get that fountain pen working effectively? Then taxes a fond good-bye, while we smilingly welcome those current. Moreover, when you come to our convention you will discover your yourself how well-informed and how sincere, hard-working and popular your M.L.A. really is. Thanking you for the space, Mr. Editor.

LAKESIDE—Mr. Sponsel and Sade entertained a number of their friends at dinner Sunday night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. Bauer and Irene, Dick Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and Robert Wright.

Arthur Bauer and family spent Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Peterson.

All roads at present lead down to the lake, where the ice is in fine condition for skating. A large number were down Sunday afternoon.

Glen Furlong and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Boys on Sunday.

Mrs. P. Morrison was an Edmonton visitor over the week-end.

Don't forget the concert, play and dance to be held in the school on Friday night.

Sunny Crest Specs

SUNNY CREST—A "farewell" party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Dole on Saturday evening, Nov. 19, with 30 friends present. Rev. F. G. Mathews read a farewell letter and presented the family with a fluffy pair of white flannellette blankets, a gift from the Sunday School and friends in the neighborhood. Rev. Frank Coxson led its school system by one of its most outstanding experts in rural education on this continent. His report became a text book for those interested in educational problems. British Columbia later had a similar survey by a group of Canadian specialists. All these roundly condemned the small unit for its inefficiency, not only from an educational standpoint but from a social, cultural, health and economical standpoint as well.

They will be especially missed due to their help with the work of the Sunday School. Mr. Dole was secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Dole very active with her class of girls.

The family will now be residing 16 miles west of Olds.

Mrs. Powers' little grandson, Edwin, was taken to Lacombe hospital last week, suffering from pneumonia.

We are glad to hear that Fred Crocker is back to school again.

Friends and relatives in this district attended the farewell party given Monday evening at the home of Alex Swanson, who leaves shortly for Scotland.

Have you noticed the ducks? They are still with us, and have been seen in great numbers.

Herb Woods' deer are still on his other quarter and seen occasionally. They seem to consider snow and sound, down there, themselves quite at home, and the sympathy of friends is extended to the relatives of J. Kinley, who passed away on Sunday night.

Not very many were out to vote for the School District trustee on Monday afternoon—nine out of the 30 on the voters' list only turned out.

AUTOMOBILE AND TRUCK COLLIDE SATURDAY NIGHT

Two hundred and fifty dollars damage was done to the car owned by Bill Burris when his car and a truck driven by C. Williams of Ponoka crashed Saturday night on the Memorial Park corner in town. Mr. Williams was driving a new truck loaded with a new car back from the east. The truck received a smashed housing and other minor damage. No one was injured.

Forty-Three-Year-Old Building Becomes a Memory

A forty-three-year-old landmark of Lacombe has disappeared with the tearing down of the Taylor Tire Repair Shop on Nanton Street. The old familiar white building was built 'way back in 1895 by Dr. J. H. Richardson. In 1896 it was sold to Dr. E. M. Sharpe, who came from Wetsaskiwin to open up a medical practice here. From that year up until 1914 it served as a home and office for Dr. Sharpe during the times that a horse and buggy was the fastest mode of locomotion in the district.

Following Dr. Sharpe's removal from the old building, it has been used for a variety of purposes, and has now been torn down to the roof for a modern store to be operated by J. H. Jardine, formerly of Red Deer.

Increased exports of wheat and corn from Roumania to Germany are likely to result from a new trade agreement signed between these countries.

Bank of Montreal Reports Highest Assets Since 1929

Showing assets at the highest point since 1929, the Bank of Montreal's annual financial statement just issued contains numerous features which indicate a steady expansion in operations during the past 12 months. Not only does the statement show that the Bank has maintained its traditionally strong position but the figures reveal a year of progress in all the main channels of the Bank's business, with assets up by over $44,000,000, bringing the total to $874,255,828, the highest in any year since 1929. The liquid position of the Bank is shown by quickly available resources which total $620,335,119, or 77.80% of all liabilities to the public.

Deposits and Bond Holdings Increased

Increases are also noted in both deposits and holdings of Government and other bonds and debentures. The former are up from $717,000,000 to $763,156,945, while the bond holdings total $440,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000.

Profits Slightly Down

In the matter of profits, while the statement shows a reduction of $10,000, it is to be noted that the payment of Dominion and Provincial Government taxes has increased substantially from $942,957 to $1,152,618, leaving a profit of $3,398,390, which is equivalent to 4.46% of the capital, rest and undivided profits. From this amount was paid in dividends to shareholders $2,880,000, and $500,000 was set aside as an appropriation for bank premises, leaving a balance to be carried forward of $18,390.

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks

by Barbara Lynn

It continually surprises me that more girls and women don't devote more attention to glamorizing their eyes; for a pair of bright, sparkling eyes will often transform an otherwise faded-looking woman into a veritable beauty. We convey fascination through our eyes; yet so many of us simply take them for granted! An eye wash is an indispensable item to every woman. It should be used several times a day, not only to ensure absolute cleanliness, but also to soothe the eyes.

Here are some little hints which you may not consider important, but which will make a considerable difference to your eyes. Never read or sew facing a light, and do not bend over your work. The first cause of eye strain is the latter congestion of the eyes.

Whatever you happen to be doing, rest your eyes now and then. If your eyes are very tired in the evening, an excellent plan is to lie down for a few minutes, with pads of cotton-wool soaked in warm witch hazel spread over your eyes.

Fascinating eyelashes are rare, and yet both eye lashes and eye brows will respond to treatment, if persistence is added to the right methods. Curly lashes are a sign of youth, and every woman desires to look her youngest.

To improve your eye lashes, brush them every night and morning with a brush that is not too soft, and which has been dipped in eyelash-growth. It is essential to remember that the lashes must be brushed up and out, with the eyes open.

My leaflet on "Eye Beauty" is full of fascinating hints. You may obtain a copy, and any of the following leaflets, by sending a 3c stamp for each one required: The Eyes and Its Care; Your Hair; Hand Beauty; Bust Development; Care of the Feet; Reducing in Spots; How to Slim; Your Hair; Underwear; Superfluous Hair. Don't forget to ask about your personal beauty problems, at the same time.

Please address your letters to: Barbara Lynn, P.O. Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

THE OBJECTION

After a long talk on the value of peace, good will and disarmament, a teacher asked his class if they objected to war.

"Yes, sir, I do!" said one boy. "Good! Now tell us why." "Because, sir," said the boy, "wars make history—and I don't like history."

TEES.—Tom Cunningham and Cy. Colebrook were appointed at a recent meeting to look after the ordering and flooding of the rink. To date they have the pipe but the weather has been too warm to order the flooding.

There are some very poor friends of community spirit in this district. At least, that's what it appears to be, by the reading of anonymous letters received. No doubt the same people who have kept the village from growing or having any sports facilities are behind the agitation to keep the town from going ahead now, and either they themselves or dis-contented, dis-illusioned and thoughtless followers have taken the means of writing anonymous letters to those who are endeavoring to build up ball diamonds, skating rinks and other means of recreation for the younger generation on a community basis.

This may retard progress a little, as some people are small enough to stoop to these tactics.

but those who wish to see the hamlet rise out of the mire of hope and distrust are biding together with the hope that these persons will become converted to co-operation rather than knock.

This will be very easy if the moral support of the present fence-sitters is given and they wish progress, but if they continue to sit on the fence the chances are that the hamlet will stay in the little rut that has held it for the past 35 years.

Attend Opening Night A couple of the old curriers took in the opening night at Mirror on Monday last. They could not be bribed to comment on the ice conditions as to whether it was like a swimming pool or crystallized ether. The main thing that they couldn't cover up was the fact that they worked off some avoidpools.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelles of Mornington and Mr. and Mrs. Nelles of Lacombe were Sunday visitors at Tees.
